MAKI HAKODA PRESENTS

The continent of Almoria was in danger of being destroyed by the Dark Dragon Alphonse. With the Capital City Police destroyed and the Kingdom crumbling, a miracle happened. A young man named Arvis of Arria grabbed hold of the Holy Sword Falchion, challenged Alphonse and emerged victorious. Falchion returned to the command and the hero, Arvis became the first ruler of the Kingdom of Arria.

Hundreds years have passed and the tragedy repeats itself. Alphonse reappears again within the earth, and joining forces with the dark priest Glaive, overruled the attempts at continental salvation. Arvis' army, having set out in an effort to save Almoria, was annihilated. Hope appeared lost.

Nine years later. Drawing on the bloodline of Arvis, Prince Marth of Arria, Arvis' last surviving son, leads the neutral Kingdom of Tana.

Character

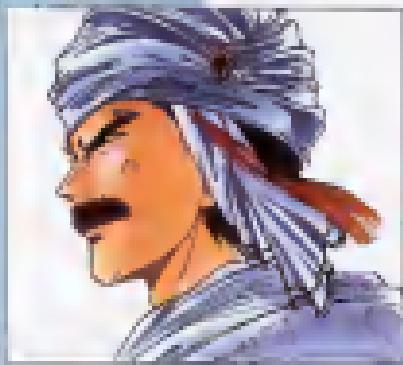

MARTH

A young magnate and childhood friend of Marth who is currently training in Khadafin.

He has motherland Arria and his father whom he holds deep respect and furthermore for his close friend Marth's army.

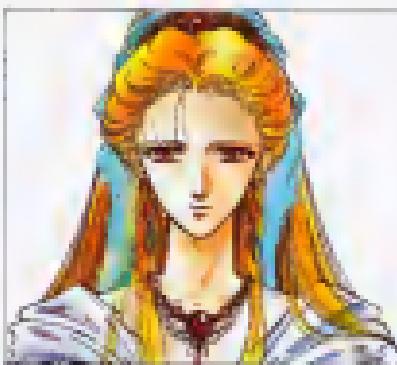

He tries his best to learn the wind magic Gouraphier. His magic is still unstable, but he is an important addition nonetheless to the army.

HADAIN

The brother of the Odeum King, "The Wall of the Plains" is the unknown. In his return he brought, in an effort to protect princess Nina, his remaining knights to another castle, to await the needed help.

NINA

The Princess of the Alessian continent. When the Police fell under the Doma invasion, having managed to escape, she became Alessian last hope. Having fled to Odeum, she prays for the revival of her kingdom.

MATISE

A soldier of Marcellus and Rivalis brothers. Difficult to see if he believes in their cause or not, but regardless commits to the side of Astra after fighting for the Doma. In a bit of an enigma.

WENDEL

A professor in the magical kingdom of Khadara. Extremly knowledgeable in the way of magic, but shadowy figure, always fully trains young students. Many consider him a heretic.

SHADOW:-

So here we are finally the end of Volume 2 and a very good one at that. First off a small apology for this taking the good part of a couple months to do. But better late than never right? Right?

Secondly large thanks to both Athanor and Seki putting up with me and not burning me at the stake. n_n

Hopefully this will get back into a more regular release but until then, thanks for reading.
